Welcome to Tennessee's Backroads

Beginning as a non-profit organization in the early 1990s as a pilot project under the National Trust for Historic Preservation, this seven-county area in Southern Middle Tennessee will offer you some of the best attractions, festivals and outdoor recreation in the State of Tennessee. Geographically, the Backroads communities cover towns just a short distance south of Nashville or west of Chattanooga. This part of Tennessee allows travelers to truly experience traveling at a slower pace and not be in such a hurry.

You are encouraged to explore this travel guide where you will discover historical and cultural sites, scenic areas, hiking and outdoor recreation, aviation history, artisans, lodging and camping, great restaurants and agricultural sites that showcase farmers markets, equine sites and festivals that will entice you to enjoy a slower pace and experience "off the interstate" travel.

This area is proud to have some of the most well-known festivals in the country such as the Bonnaroo Music and Arts Festival, the largest music festival in the United States, a 10-day horse show in Shelbyville known as "The Celebration", the Jack Daniel's Invitational BBQ Cookoff in famous Lynchburg, and the Lions Club "Super Pull of the South" just to name a few. And, there are also unusual festivals like the culinary festival showcasing the famous "Slawburger" that is widely served in the Fayetteville area. There is never a lack of an area festival, music concert or special event in the area.

For the train history enthusiasts, many communities enjoy the sound of "train whistles" that trail throughout the small towns such as Cowan, Wartrace, and Tullahoma. Civil War history weaves its stories throughout the communities with a self-driving tour featuring kiosks that chronicle the 1863 Civil War struggle for Middle Tennessee known as "The Tullahoma Campaign."

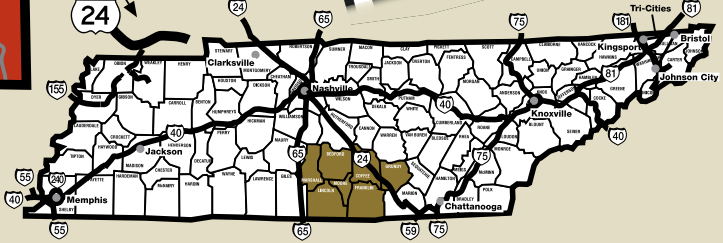

The Backroads area truly has "the best of the best" that Tennessee has to offer. Many tourists come as a visitor and return for a lifetime! We welcome you for a visit to witness true Southern Hospitality and see why our motto is "For Memories That Last a Lifetime." We promise your first visit will not be your last!

Due to the supply shortages and employee hiring challenges, we suggest calling before making travel plans to verify operation hours.

It is one of the most scenic courses in the State of Tennessee with beaver, otter and many kinds of birds along the Duck River. It is a fun place to play and was occupied by the Indians for 300 years. You can still see an Indian mound between hole #1 and #9. This area also may have been visited by Desoto's Lost Band in the 1500's and was occupied by the Confederate forces in the winter of 1863. Open seven days a week. Kids 12 and under play free, Senior and Military $15.50 for 9 holes with cart, $18 others. Call before coming for any unscheduled closures.

Old Stone Fort Golf Course

Surrounded by the Duck River, this scenic golf course is just a 5 minute drive from Interstate 24 Exit 110.

Rates: 9 Holes - $10 ($20 with cart)
18 Holes - $18 ($30 with cart)
Senior/Military discounts available.
Children 12 and under Free.

Visitors welcome to walk the cart paths and access the surrounding river for fishing, kayaking, or swimming.

Cowan Railroad Museum represents the powerful history of transportation and industry in Tennessee's South Cumberland region. Housed in the old Cowan Depot, the museum is Tennessee's second official state railroad museum and is also listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The busy mainline railroad through Cowan started construction in 1849 and features the noteworthy Cumberland Mountain Tunnel. Cowan was also a terminus for the famous Mountain Goat line that extended through Sewanee and into the coal fields of Grundy County. At the time of construction, the Mountain Goat was the steepest railroad in the world. The railroad helped lead the area's industrial revolution by attracting a steel mill, logging operation, tourism, and a university.

The museum features a diverse collection of railroad photos, tools, and relics that take you back to the age of steam and steel. Kids and adults will all enjoy a large model railroad designed to represent the area's landscape and architecture. The museum tour guides have stories to tell, and the gift shop can help you take home memories of this small-town experience. The Museum is located in the historic depot district and is open May through October: Thursday, Friday, Saturday 10 to 4, and Sunday 1 to 4. Admission is $2/person. The boyhood home of the great Confederate cavalry general, Nathan Bedford Forrest, is located on land that was originally a Revolutionary War land grant. William Forrest, the general's father, bought the house and land, moved the family from the frontier village of Chapel Hill to this location and lived here from 1830-1833. The site includes the original two-story 1820's cedar cabin and barn plus 57 acres of woods and farmland. In 1997, the Sons of Confederate Veterans acquired the property and began the restoration and maintenance of this historic site. At this time, the home is not open on a daily basis; tours are available by calling for advance reservations. This is also the site of the annual Southern Heritage Festival held the 3rd Saturday in June.

Elm Springs was built by two brothers as a gift for their only sister in 1837. Named for the many elm trees and springs located on the property, this gift stands today despite almost being destroyed during the War Between the States and from neglect in the early twentieth century.

The home was purchased by the Sons of Confederate Veterans since 1992 and has served as the organization's international headquarters since. A new multi-million-dollar museum was recently built on the property. This new building not only houses the National Confederate Museum, but also the offices of the headquarters, allowing the house to return to being a true historic site, open for tours and rentals.

Tours of Elm Springs are held at the top of the hour with the first tour starting at 9 am and the last tour beginning at 3 pm and departs from the Museum Gift Shop. If you arrive between tours, feel free to browse the gift shop, walk the grounds, or visit the National Confederate Museum until your tour begins. The Sons of Confederate Veterans General Headquarters, known as "Elm Springs", is located, approximately 45 miles south of Nashville and 20 miles south of Franklin. Elm Springs is a lovely antebellum home built in 1837 by two wealthy cotton merchants from New Orleans. In 1992, it was acquired by the SCV to serve as the SCV national headquarters. "Elm Springs" is open Mon.-Fri., 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. CST. The home and gift shop are closed on Sat. and Sun. The gift shop offers a wide selection of books on the Civil War. "Elm Springs" can be reserved for special events, weddings and group tours with advanced notice.

The SCV is the direct heir of the United Confederate Veterans and the oldest hereditary organization for male descendants of Confederate soldiers. Organized at Richmond, VA in 1896, the SCV serves as a historical, patriotic, and non-political organization dedicated to insuring that a true history of the 1861-1865 period is preserved.

The mission of this museum is to provide the public with a Southern perspective of the War Between the States and to educate all generations on the history of the War and its ongoing legacy.

The museum building was designed to resemble a large carriage house, one that might accent the style and age of historic Elm Springs. The interior of the museum features a spacious gift shop and lobby, a research library, and two exhibit halls. The offices of the SCV General Headquarters are located in this new building. In total, the museum building has 18,500 square feet of usable space with unfinished shell space that can be used for future growth.

Located 2 miles south of Franklin on Columbia Pike (Hwy 31), the Confederate Memorial Park at Winstead Hill is the location of Confederate General John Bell Hood's headquarters during the Battle of Franklin fought in the evening hours of November 30, 1864.

The Confederate Army of Tennessee formed at the foot of Winstead Hill and stepped off at 4 p.m. to begin the march northward to attack the Federal earthworks south of Franklin in one of the bloodiest battles of the war.

The property, owned by the Sons of the Confederate Veterans, is the home for 14 monuments and 4 metal plaques for individuals and states with troops or individuals who participated in the Battles of Franklin, including the April 1863 battle.

The park is open 365 days a year from dawn to dusk. There is no admission fee but donations are greatly appreciated for maintenance.

Coy Gaithers/Bedford Lake
Shelbyville, 37160
931-781-6622

Coy Gaithers Bedford Lake can be found in Bedford County. The lake is approximately 14 miles east of Wartrace, TN and Shelbyville, TN. The lake is 47 acres and has a picnic area for visitors. The fishing facilities also include a boat launching ramp, fishing pier, and fish attractors.

Duck River

Shelbyville, 37160
931-684-7820

The Duck River is the longest and one of the most beautiful rivers in Tennessee. It originates near downtown Manchester at the meeting place of the Barren Fork and the Little Duck in Old Stone Fort State Archaeological Park. The Duck River runs for 268.5 miles, twisting and turning its way across seven counties before emptying into Kentucky Lake on the Tennessee River. This river is a natural treasure, supplying water for many communities along the river.

This natural area provides fishing, boating, camping and Duck River access for canoes and small watercraft. The Duck River is stocked with trout and other game fish. Visit the Normandy Fish Hatchery in the area. Group tours available with advanced reservations.

Normandy Dam Reservoir and Fish Hatchery

Normandy Reservoir attracts bass anglers, campers, and boaters from a wide area. Barton Springs Recreation Area on the south shore of the reservoir is particularly popular.

The Duck River watershed is one of the most biologically diverse river systems in the nation. Over 500 species of fish, insects, and other aquatic life inhabit the ecosystem, including two species of mussels — the Cumberland monkeyface and the birdwing pearly — on the endangered species list.

Normandy is the largest of the non-power dams on tributaries of the Tennessee River. It is operated for flood damage reduction, water supply, and recreational opportunities. Normandy also provides water for a fish hatchery immediately downstream.

May Prairie State Natural Area

Manchester, TN 37388

615-532-0431

www.tennessee.gov/environment

May Prairie is a Class II natural scientific state natural area on 346 acres in Coffee County. It adjoins the Hickory Flat Wood Wildlife Management Area (WMA) which combined provides more than 1,000 acres of public land. The most impressive feature at May Prairie is the open grassland community that protrudes into the surrounding oak forest where the oak barrens begin.

May Prairie is one of the State's most floristically diverse natural areas with 25 of its more than 300 plant species that occur here considered rare in Tennessee. May Prairie was discovered during a botany foray in 1947 by Dr. A. J. Sharp and colleagues from the University of Tennessee while stopping for lunch at the Prairie Café. They were told that a prairie could be found behind the restaurant.

There are hundreds of acres of restorable oak barrens associated with the natural area and the WMA. May Prairie is also recognized by the Department of the Interior as a National Natural Landmark.

www.tullahomatrnl.gov

Located three miles west on Country Club Dr off Hwy 55. A 420-acre preserve that features waterfalls and walking trails. The natural area provides an excellent contrast between Highland Rim and Central Basin geology and vegetation. When descending along the Machine Falls trail, a visitor can observe exposed black Chattanooga shale at mid-slope, which is a formation that delineates the Central Basin from the Highland Rim. Thickets of mountain laurel grow on the upper slopes under a dry oak hickory forest canopy that is characteristic of Highland Rim vegetation. Short Springs is one of the very best Spring wildflower locations in the state showcasing Virginia bluebells, jack-in-the-pulpit, larkspur, and Dutchman's breeches. Call for information on the annual Wildflower Walk.
